

MENTALE VEERKRACHT IN TOEKOMSTORIËTERING

CAW Zuid-West-Vlaanderen

May - November 2024

The Centre for General Welfare Work (CAW) helps people with all their questions and problems related to welfare; a difficult relationship, personal, financial, legal or material difficulties, problems in your family, relatives or your wider social environment... CAW also helps victims and perpetrators of violence, abuse and those involved in road accidents and crimes.

Through this project, CAW ZWV aims to strengthen mental resilience in future orientation, by empowering people with precarious residence status and training social workers who work with them.

What we do?

-  Training social workers in methodologies around psycho-education and future orientation, so that they can work effectively with this target group
-  Implementing and testing methodologies around psycho-education and future orientation

 Thematic priority

- Psychosocial support to migrants and frontline workers
- Capacity building frontline workers

“The lack of certainty about residence status causes a lot of stress and mental unwellness, especially during the asylum procedure and in case of negative decisions. In the South-West Flanders region, there are hardly any or no organisations working on the mental wellbeing of people with a precarious residence status.”
